MSME SECTOR TRANSFORMATION TO STIMULATE ECONOMIC GROWTH

Dr Ranjeet Mehta

Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) are crucial for the economic growth and stability of any country and play a vital role especially for developing countries as they facilitate economic activity and provide employment thus contributing to poverty reduction. In India too, the significance of the 65 million+ MSMEs that create about 120 million jobs and 30% of the country's economic output cannot be underestimated as it forms the backbone of the industrial landscape of the country contributing 49 percent to the exports and 45 percent to the manufacturing sector and are also responsible for around 30 percent of total employment generation.

The development of this segment is very much essential to meet the national imperatives of financial inclusion and the generation of significant levels of employment across the country. Many developed and developing economies have demonstrated that the MSME segment is the catalyst for maintaining growth and employment generation, which provides stability during economic downturns. As a catalyst for socio-economic transformation of the country, the sector is critical in meeting the national objectives of generating employment and discouraging rural-urban migration.

MSME Landscape in India

- Over 90% of firms have less than 5 workers.
- The MSME sector is dominated by small firms that do not grow with age.
- Global experience suggests that in the absence of distortions, firms grow with age. However, in India the average number of employees in a forty-year-old

- ▶ Remaining Rs.2312.45 crore to be funded by Government of India plant is almost the same as its five-year-old counterpart.

- These skewed patterns of growth impose huge productivity costs.

MSMEs function in a highly competitive space and require an enabling environment to sustain growth. The government is taking a slew of measures to provide adequate support in these areas like the proposal to bring the change in the definition of MSMEs, the introduction of Pradhan Mantri Mudra Yojana (PMMY) for enabling hassle-free credit to MSMEs, enabling e-marketplace for MSMEs, two percent Interest Subvention Scheme, introduction of TReDS platform for discounting of bills, conduct of loan melas, restructuring the loans of stressed MSMEs, etc.

The MSME sector strategically has become the most important

Jallianwala Bagh Massacre Before and After

April 13 marks the anniversary of one of the goriest episodes in human history and the darkest chapter of British rule in India - the Jallianwala Bagh massacre. The Jallianwala tragedy changed the course of history and the complexion of the struggle of India to overthrow the yoke of British rule. It served as the biggest source of inspiration to freedom fighters devoted to the cause of Indian independence for the next 28 years, when ultimately India attained freedom from foreign rule.

Jallianwala Bagh is a reminder to each one of us as to how hard won and precious our freedom is. April 13 offers one a poignant moment of reflection on colonial cruelty and irrational anger and to remember the innocent Indians who lost their lives that Baisakhi day in 1919.

The massacre of April 1919 was not an isolated incident, rather an incident that happened with a multitude of factors working in the background. To understand what transpired on April 13, 1919, one must look at the events preceding it.

The Indian National Congress (INC) had assumed self-governance would be granted once World War I ended but the imperial bureaucracy had other plans. The Rowlatt Act (Black Act) was passed on March 10, 1919, authorising the government to imprison or confine, without a trial, any person associated with seditious activities. This led to nationwide unrest.

Mahatma Gandhi initiated Satyagraha to protest against the Rowlatt Act. On April 7, 1919, he published an article called 'Satyagrahi', describing ways to oppose the Rowlatt Act. The British authorities discussed amongst themselves the actions to be taken against Gandhiji and any other leaders who were participating in the Satyagraha.

In Punjab, the agitation was more extensive and intensive than in any other province. There was greater fervour, more strident emotions, larger gatherings of crowds, and all this tended to rowdy demonstrations, alarm of authorities and frequent clashes. Punjab had achieved a reputation for turbulence since the agrarian troubles of 1907. The conditions had greatly deteriorated since then. The province was feeling a sense of deep frustration and Gandhiji's call had an electrifying effect upon the people.

Orders were issued to prohibit Gandhiji from entering Punjab and to arrest him if he disobeyed the orders.

Sir Michael O' Dwyer, the Lieutenant Governor of Punjab (1912-1919), suggested that Gandhiji be deported to Burma but this was opposed by his fellow officials as they felt it might instigate the public. Dr Saifuddin Kitchlew and Dr Satyapal, two prominent leaders, organised a peaceful protest against the Rowlatt Act in Amritsar. On April 9, 1919, Ram Navami was being celebrated when O' Dwyer issued orders to the Deputy Commissioner, Mr Irving to arrest Dr Satyapal and Dr Kitchlew. On April 10, 1919, the infuriated protestors marched to the Deputy Commissioner's residence to demand the release of their two leaders, where they were fired upon without any provocation. Many people were wounded and killed.

The Massacre

On April 13, 1919, the public had gathered in Jallianwala Bagh to celebrate Baisakhi. However, the British point of view, as seen from the documents present in the National Archives of India, indicates that it was a political gathering. Despite General

Dyer's orders prohibiting unlawful assembly, people gathered at the Bagh, where two resolutions were to be discussed, one condemning the firing on April 10 and the other requesting the authorities to release their leaders.

When the news reached him, General Dyer headed to the Bagh with his troops. He entered the Bagh, deployed his troops and ordered them to open fire without giving any warning. People rushed to the exits but Dyer directed his soldiers to fire at the exit.

The firing continued for 10-15 minutes. 1,650 rounds were fired. The firing ceased only after the ammunition had run out. The total estimated figure of the dead as given by General Dyer and Mr Irving was 291. However, other reports, including that of a committee headed by Madan Mohan Malviya, put the figure of dead at over 500.

Post-Jallianwala Bagh

Two days after the massacre, martial law was clamped down on five districts - Lahore, Amritsar, Gujranwala, Gujarat and Lyallpore. The declaration of martial law was to empower the Viceroy to direct immediate trial by court-martial of any person involved in the revolutionary activities. As the news of the massacre spread across the nation, Rabindranath Tagore renounced his knighthood.

In Amritsar, the massacre was followed by clamping the curfew order which remained in force for two months. Numerous people were tried under the martial law, many were sentenced to death, others to transportation for life and various terms of imprisonment. At Lahore, a procession was fired thrice on the April 10th and again on the April 17th. On the 16th, three respected leaders of Lahore-Rambhaji Dutt Chowdhury, Harkishen Lal and Duni Chand were invited to the Deputy Commissioner's house, arrested and deported.

The martial law regime from April 15 to May 29, 1919 was a horrid tale of atrocious dealings-commandeering of transport, stopping of free distribution of food to the needy, convictions by the summary courts, imprisonment, stripes, public flogging, marching students 16 miles a day in the hot midday sun of May.

At Gujranwala, bombs were thrown on a boarding house, machine guns were fired into villages and in the city to produce 'moral effect'. Indiscriminate arrests were made and people were subjected to humiliation, flogging and many indignities. The gruesome tale was repeated at numerous other places.

The Hunter Commission

On October 14, 1919, the Disorders Inquiry Committee was formed to inquire about the massacre. It later came to be known as the Hunter Commission. The Hunter Commission was directed to announce their verdict on the justifiability, or otherwise, of the steps taken by the government. All the British officials involved in the administration during the disturbances in Amritsar were interro-gated including General Dyer and Mr Irving.

General Dyer's actions on the day of the Massacre received a prompt acknowledgement from Sir Michael O' Dwyer who at once wired to him: "Your action correct. Lieutenant-Governor approves." Both Dyer and Dwyer faced violent criticism from various newspapers who gave their own accounts of the brutal massacre.

The evidence General Dyer presented before the Hunter Committee stood as a confession of the brutal act he committed. The Committee indicated the massacre as one of the darkest episodes of the British Administration. The Hunter Commission in 1920 censured Dyer for his actions. The Commander-in-Chief directed General Dyer to resign from his appointment.

O'Dwyer's Assassination

On March 13, 1940, at Caxton Hall in London, Udham Singh, an Indian freedom fighter, assassinated Michael O'Dwyer who had approved Dyer's action and was believed to have been the main planner of the massacre. O'Dwyer was shot by Udham Singh outside a Westminster venue. Singh had been at Amritsar that fateful day, and the story goes that he himself had been shot and wounded. That led to a life of activism that resulted in him fatally shooting O'Dwyer. Udham Singh was hanged for taking his revenge.

Jallianwala Bagh was a crucial juncture in India's movement for Independence. It was a significant incident in the history of India. The Indian National Movement became a mass movement in the true sense of the word. A large number of groups belonging to different social, political and religious denominations started their struggle for the emancipation of India from British rule.

Jallianwala Bagh National Memorial

The Jallianwala Bagh National Memorial Act, 1951 provided for the erection and management of a National Memorial to perpetuate and honour the memory of those killed or wounded on April 13, 1919, in Amritsar.

The Jallianwala Bagh Memorial at this site commemorates the 2,000 Indians who were killed or wounded, shot indiscriminately on April 13, 1919 while participating in a peaceful public meeting. The story of this appalling massacre is told in the Martyrs' Gallery at the site. It stands as a symbol of struggle and sacrifice and continues to instill patriotism amongst the youth. A section of wall with bullet marks still visible is preserved along with the Memorial well, in which some people jumped to escape. In March 2019, the Yaad-e-Jallian Museum was inaugurated showcasing an authentic account of the massacre.

Multiple development initiatives have been undertaken at the complex recently. Elaborate heritage restoration works have been carried out in sync with the local architectural style of Punjab. The Shaheedi well has been repaired and restored with a redefined super structure. The heart of the Bagh, the flame monument, has been repaired and restored, the water body rejuvenated as a lily pond, and the pathways made broader for better navigability.

Four Museum galleries have been created through adaptive reuse of redundant and underutilised buildings. The galleries showcase the historical value of events that unfolded in Punjab during that period, with the fusion of audio-visual technology, including projection mapping and 3D representation, as well as art and sculptural installations. A sound and light show has been set up to display the events that happened on April 13, 1919.

Several new and modern amenities have been added, including redefined paths of movement with appropriate signages, illumination of strategic spots, landscaping and hardscaping with native plantation, and installation of audio nodes throughout the garden. Also, newer areas have been developed for housing the Salvation Ground, Amar Jyot and Flag Mast.

The 1951 Act was amended in 2019 to make apolitical the Trust that runs Jallianwala Bagh National Memorial by removing the clause pertaining to the President of INC as a permanent member of the Trust. The Bill was also amended to include the Leader of Opposition recognised as such in Lok Sabha or when there is no such Leader of Opposition, then the Leader of the single largest Opposition Party in that House as a member of the Trust.

As the Vice President of India, on the 100th anniversary of the massacre in 2019, rightly said, the pain and agony continue to rankle in the hearts of every Indian to this day. He said, "History is not a mere chronicle of events. It shows us the depths to which depraved minds can plunge and cautions us to learn from the past. It also tells us that the power of evil is transient."

sector fuelling the economic growth of the country. The sector is slated to gain even greater prominence in the days to come owing to its potential for employment generation. It is also the bedrock from which a large corporate of the future evolves. Hence, it is imperative for all the formal financial institutions to progressively reach out to the large extent of MSMEs untouched by these institutions.

Change in Definition of MSMEs

Effective from 1st July 2020 - Criteria for classification of micro, small and medium enterprises:-

- A Micro Enterprise- Where the investment in Plant and Machinery or Equipment does not exceed one crore rupees and turnover does not exceed five crore rupees.
- A Small Enterprise- Where the investment in Plant and Machinery or Equipment does not exceed ten crore rupees and turnover does not exceed fifty crore rupees.
- A Medium Enterprise- Where the investment in Plant and Machinery or Equipment does not exceed fifty crore rupees and turnover does not exceed two hundred and fifty crore rupees.

Industry feels that a change in the definition of MSMEs with an upward revision in their investment limit will help in the seamless expansion of small and medium businesses in the country and help them to access the institutional working capital. A robust MSME sector is key to improving the economic strength and resilience of the country and making it highly self-reliant and globally competitive.

The change in the definition of MSMEs may result in many enterprises which were classified as Small enterprises getting reclassified as Micro, and those classified as Medium enterprises getting reclassified as Small. Further, there may be many enterprises which are not currently classified as MSMEs, which may fall under the MSME classification as per the new definition. Such enterprises will also now benefit from the schemes related to MSMEs. The Ministry of MSME runs various schemes to provide for: (i) flow of credit to MSMEs, (ii) support for technology upgrade and modernization, (iii) entrepreneurship and skill development, and (iv) cluster-wise measures to promote capacity-building and empowerment of MSME units.

Although there has been a mixed reaction on the new definition of MSME, but most industries think that the change in the definition of MSME is one of the most significant changes made to the legal regime governing MSMEs since the enactment of the MSME Act as it brings numerous companies within the ambit of the MSME Act and allows them to avail of the benefits of the reforms introduced by the Government for the MSME sector during this pandemic of COVID-19.

Digital Technologies can Transform Indian MSME Sector

We are in the midst of a significant transformation regarding the way we produce thanks to the digitization of manufacturing. Technological obsolescence and sub-optimal scale are two critically distinguishing features of Indian MSMEs, which predominantly consist of micro, informal enterprises. Therefore, policymakers in India have two persistent challenges to the modernization of the MSME sector in the country, namely, first how to accelerate technological upgradation and modernization of more and more MSMEs. Second is - how do we enable more and more MSMEs to expand their scale of production?

The world is facing greater disruption and an increasing innovation pace and actually caught up in a very revolutionary period. The days of simple product innovation are dwindling. Currently the technology, talent, and new innovation ecosystems are emerging - building greater complexities into our final innovation offerings. Intelligent automation and technology are fueling this new industrial revolution. And this unprecedented, exponential pace of change is increasingly reliant on collaborative platforms to realize more radical innovations.

Organizations everywhere are facing mounting pressure to transform - to shift from product-centric business models to new models focused on creating and capturing different sources of new value propositions. As a result, innovation is becoming more complex. We are looking increasingly to our engineers, designers, and scientists to unlock these new knowledge flows that bring us whole new areas of technology-based innovation. Product innovation is continually giving way to new concepts that have technology built into them. Our innovation has become increasingly complex, connected, and contextual.

Industry value chains are being radically redesigned to accommodate connected worlds being more reliant on everything being digital. As we continue to design manufacturing to be fully connected-up, we can adjust faster, scale differently, and deliver quantities to varying cycles of demand, closer to the need of the day and more appealing to the customers. Our innovation scope changes with these new dynamics.

We need to appreciate new digital business models and their impact. We are increasingly reliant on digital engineering and science. There is scope to have radically different product development and processes to manage. These are multiplying by this rate of industrial change. The traditional supply chain has a very different potential when factories and operations become highly connected.

The new business models will emerge from the way they can be operated to be responsive in the supply networks. All this requires digital management. As we connect more, the customer experiences can hugely benefit. We can target, sell, and market on greater connecting knowledge platforms. We can understand channel choice and provide more tailored pre- and post-sales support to manage the entire lifecycle as we continue to build the connected ecosystems. Further, blockchain technology is not only disrupting banking and finance, but it also has the potential to impact many industries and community as a whole. For instance, this technology can enable a car to respond as per the need by installing a digital wallet based on blockchain technology. This wallet works by logging all transactions made involving the vehicle, including maintenance, modifications, charging or filling up gas. It makes it possible to predetermine the total cost of ownership and calculate return on investment for the car on a very detailed level.

We have noticed during Covid-19 pandemic how exhibitions are getting displayed on virtual spaces. How physical conferences are converting into digital webinars? The goal for all manufacturers will be to get digital as soon as possible at the lowest cost. In defining the operating model for digitization they will factor in lessons learnt from the crisis and try to build a more resilient and agile business. I believe one of the major weaknesses is a lack of real-time visibility across the business. Visibility that is essential to support critical business decisions. For example- What is the demand for products and where can we manufacture them? What is our current raw material, work-in-progress and finished goods inventory levels? What is our manufacturing capacity, both in terms of human resources and asset availability?

The impact of the Covid-19 pandemic has demonstrated the value of IT and digital transformation across industries and businesses and they must utilize this time to speed up the transition. It has been demonstrated in the enhanced corporate ability of long-distance collaborative work, wide recognition of the value of digital transformation and information technology among all employees, and the ability to market online and business development.

To conclude, one of the easiest and cost effective methods of reaching out markets internationally for MSMEs is internet. Time is now when internet can be one of the tools that MSMEs can easily adopt and can capitalize on Digital India and leverage the internet to market themselves and build an identity-and lead the digital transformation for India. Digital should be able to democratize globalization-MSMEs with vision should now reach customers all over the world. The online space can open up a whole new avenue of doing business which was just not available earlier. This in turn will lead to a growth of entrepreneurs as well as giving MSMEs an importance in our economy-something that simply is the need of hour. A survey conducted in 2020 by Endurance International Group, an IT services company, revealed that 30% MSMEs have launched their business websites or tied up with e-commerce platforms and more than 50% MSMEs have adopted video conferencing tools to ensure business continuity since the pandemic-induced disruptions. According to the Cisco India SMB Digital Maturity Study 2020, digital adoption will enable SMEs to add US$ 158-216 billion to India's GDP by 2024.

Finally, Digital platforms and technologies can bring drastic changes and scale up MSMEs. The Ministry of MSMEs provides many learning programs and schemes to help MSMEs adapt to the ever-evolving digital technologies. Ministry of MSME is working hard towards lowering the digital gap by conducting informative workshops to help these conventional companies spread their business and cope up with technology disruption. Conventional businesses are now warming up to the concept of new digital technologies as they understand that without the use of technology they cannot scale up and become globally competitive.

Panchayati Raj : Building the Nation from Grassroots

Decentralization is the process whereby authority is restructured between institutions of governance at the central, regional and local levels with power and functions transferred to the lowest institutional or social level. It is an important apparatus through which democracy becomes truly representative and real. Decentralization ensures people at the grassroots-level participate in the decision-making process.

Decentralization of power to the local authorities is the most effective way to empower people. It not only helps in increasing efficiency but is a sure method to promote equitable growth. In India, Panchayati Raj system is identified as the prime instrument of decentralization through which democracy becomes truly representative and responsive. The Panchayati Raj Institutions are considered as local self-government meant for providing basic infrastructure facilities, empowering weaker sections of the society and initiating the development process in the rural parts of the country.

What is National Panchayati Raj Day?

The Constitution (73rd Amendment) Act, 1992 that came into force with effect from April 24, 1993 has vested constitutional status on Panchayati Raj Institutions. This date thus marks a defining moment in the history of decentralization of political power to the grassroots level. The impact of the 73rd Amendment in rural India is very visible as it has changed power equations irreversibly. Accordingly, the Government of India decided in 2010, in consultation with the States, to celebrate April 24 as National Panchayati Raj Day. The commemoration is anchored and celebrated by the Ministry of Panchayati Raj.

On the occasion, awards are given to the best performing Panchayats. These are namely, Deen Dayal Upadhyay Panchayat Sashaktikaran Puraskar (DDUPSP) in General and Thematic categories for all three levels of Panchayats, Nanaji Deshmukh Rashtriya Gaurav Gram Sabha Puraskar (NDRGGSP) to Gram Panchayats for outstanding performance of Gram Sabha, Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP) Award to be conferred upon three best performing Gram Panchayats across the country, and Child-friendly Gram Panchayat Award.

Ever since the 73rd Amendment came into force, the process of political empowerment of the Panchayats has largely been achieved. While Panchayat elections have been regularly held in all the States and Union Territories, reservations have been provided to women, Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes in proportion to their share of the population in each panchayat area. There are several other landmark initiatives that the government has undertaken to empower the Panchayati Raj Institutions.

SVAMITVA

SVAMITVA (Survey of Villages and Mapping with Improved Technology in Village Areas) was launched by the Hon'ble Prime Minister on National Panchayati Raj Day in 2020, with a resolve to enable economic progress of rural India by providing "Record of Rights" to every rural household owner. The scheme aims to demarcate inhabited (Abadi) land in rural areas through the latest surveying drone-technology. It is a collaborative effort of the Ministry of Panchayati Raj, State Revenue Departments, State Panchayati Raj Departments and Survey of India. The scheme covers multifarious aspects viz. facilitating monetisation of properties and enabling bank loan, reducing property related disputes, and comprehensive village level planning that would be the stepping-stone towards achieving Gram Swaraj in true sense and making rural India Atmanirbhar.

Apart from demarcation of individual rural property, other Gram Panchayat and community assets like village roads, ponds, canals, open spaces, school, Anganwadi, Health sub-centres, etc. would also be surveyed and GIS maps would be created. Further, these GIS maps and spatial databases would also help in preparation of accurate work estimates for various works undertaken by Gram Panchayats and other Departments of State Government. These can also be used to prepare better-quality Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP).

The main activities under the Scheme are:

- Establishment of Continuous Operating Reference System: It is a network of reference stations that provide a virtual base station that allows access to long-range high-accuracy network Real Time Kinematic (RTK) corrections with centimetre-level horizontal positioning. CORS network supports in accurate Geo-referencing, ground truthing and demarcation of lands.
- Large Scale mapping using Drones: Rural inhabited area would be mapped by Survey of India using drone Survey. It would generate high resolution and accurate maps to confer ownership property rights. Based on these maps or data, property cards would be issued to the - rural household owners

- Awareness program to sensitize the rural population about the surveying methodology and its benefits
- Setting of Programme management unit at National and State level
- Development/Maintenance of Scheme Dashboard and integration of drone survey Spatial data/maps with Ministry's Spatial planning application to support in planning at local level
- Documentation of best practices/conducting National and Regional workshops

The objective of the Scheme is to provide right of the property to the household. It opens avenues for applying for loans from Financial Institutes by Property Owners. It will help reduce disputes related to property. With clear titles, accurate size determination and transparent land titles, SVAMITVA will provide the States with an unprecedented prospect of empowering the Gram Panchayats to levy and collect Property Tax, which would be available to the Panchayat for local use/ development work. This would provide financial wherewithal to the Gram Panchayats. The scheme will also enhance the socio-economic profile of the Panchayats, making them self-sustainable

e-Gram Swaraj e-Financial Management System

In order to strengthen e-Governance in Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs), eGram-Swaraj, a Simplified Work Based Accounting Application for Panchayati Raj, was launched on the occasion of National Panchayati Raj Day on April 24, 2020.

e-GramSwaraj will assist in enhancing the credibility of Panchayat through inducing greater devolution of funds to PRIs. It aims to bring better transparency through decentralized planning, progress reporting and work-based accounting. Furthermore, the application provides a platform for effective monitoring by higher authorities. It has been developed amalgamating the functionalities of all the applications under e-panchayat Mission Mode Project (MMP). e-GramSwaraj subsumes the e-FMS applications and comprises of following modules:

- GP Profile: To maintain Panchayat profile with Election Details, Elected Members, Committee information etc.
- Panchayat Planning: To facilitate the planning of activities and action plan creation
- Physical Progress: To record the physical and financial progress of approved activities
- Financial Progress: To facilitate the work-based accounting and monitoring of funds
- Asset Directory: To store the details of all the immovable and movable assets of the Panchayats.
- Strong Authentication Mechanism based on open source technologies is also included.

In order to enhance transparency and empower panchayats, the Ministry is integrating beneficiary details of various Union Ministries/ Departments with e-Gram SWARAJ Application. The information shall be available to Gram Panchayats, to read out in the course of the Gram Sabhas for public verification. This verification would be a landmark in ensuring accountability through digitalization and public participation. Further, the Ministry has enabled data sharing between eGramSwaraj, PFMS and Core Banking System (CBS) through PFMS integration. The process of Reverse Integration with respective State treasuries and eGramSwaraj Interface (eGSPI) has been envisaged to obviate the need to book the receipt vouchers manually in the application.

Aptitude and Reasoning. The entire paper has to be solved in two hours within the time allotted for each section. This paper will be of 200 marks. There is a requirement to obtain minimum marks in each section as well as in all sections put together. Those who don't meet this requirement will be out of the next round in the selection process. A merit list shall be prepared and a certain number of candidates will be asked to appear in the Phase-II examination which comprises three independent papers of Economic and Social Issues, English Writing Skills and General Finance and Management. The first and last papers will be 50 percent objective and 50 percent descriptive where as the paper of English Writing Skills will be fully descriptive. Each of these papers are of 100 marks.

Except the English segment, all other sections both in Phase I and II are bilingual. Candidates have the option to answer either in Hindi or English. Descriptive papers are to be answered by typing on computer in the chosen language. There is an indicative syllabus which is provided with the notification of the examination.

The top scorers in Phase II examination will be called to attend the interview which carries 75 marks.

Examination for Grade B-DEPR/DSM will have only one phase which comprises three papers. Paper I will be in objective form with questions from Economics/Statistics (as applicable). Paper II will have subjective questions on the subject. Paper III will test the candidates for their knowledge in English through descriptive questions. These three papers will be of 100 marks each with duration of 120, 180 and 90 minutes respectively. Based on the cut-off, a certain number of candidates will be required to appear in interview.

The RBI gives option to appear for the interview in Hindi or English medium. Scoring high marks in the subjective papers will improve your chances of success. This is not to undermine the importance of the interview part.

Test Coverage and Pattern

Strategic preparation is required to succeed in RBI officers examination. An attempt here is made to give some idea about the coverage of test and nature of questions likely to be asked under different sections. Preparation strategy has also been indicated.

General Awareness: Questions can be from Indian/ world history, geography, economy, government schemes, bench-mark rates, etc. You need to know about capital cities, currencies of different countries, new/old treaties between countries and latest national and international events. You have to prepare both for general knowledge and current affairs. For the former, you should refer to one or more general knowledge books. For the latter, referring to newspapers, competition and business magazines are required. A good idea would be to maintain a diary to record things worth noting, updating it on a regular basis and keep referring to the diary.

English Language: In phase I, this paper will have objective questions. You may find a comprehension piece which you've to read attentively to answer the questions. Arranging pieces of a long sentence in order to make it meaningful, antonyms and synonyms, fill in the blanks will form other questions.

Your effort should be to strengthen your vocabulary by learning the meaning of few English words every day and remembering / understanding antonyms and synonyms. You should be able to look into minute differences between meanings of words that are either spelt or pronounced similarly. In case of comprehension, understand exactly what is being asked to retrieve answer from the passage.

In case of English writing skills, the paper will be in subjective form. You may be asked to make use of phrases in sentences, write a précis of given passage, provide title to it, write an essay on a relevant/contemporary topic. In previous years, essay topics have been related to Indian economy, contribution of GDP, climatic changes etc.

Quantitative Aptitude: In this paper you will find questions on number series, ratio and proportion, partnership, age, profit and loss, time and work, simple and compound interest, meeting / crossing of trains, speed and distance, boat and stream, time, speed and distance etc.

Reasoning: This section will have questions based on puzzles, seating arrangement (circular/linear/square, syllogism, coding-decoding, alphanumeric series, direction and distance, ranking, analogy, blood relations, machine input and output, coding-decoding, scheduling, data (in) sufficiency etc.

Those who will be attempting questions from the above domains must spend sufficient time to understand the way questions are framed and solving strategies. Even if you've previous experience of giving such tests, you'll need to practice a lot. In reasoning questions you will be required to connect the dots without looking at superficial information. Few questions may be lengthy which shouldn't perturb you. Read the question in sequence with a cool mind before you jump to the answer.

For quantitative aptitude you've to refresh what you read in arithmetic at SSC (10th standard) level. Remember the formulae and make your understanding clear about BODMAS.

Economic and Social Issues: This section may include questions on inflation, employment scenario, demographic dividend, services and manufacturing sector, exports-imports, foreign direct investment, banking and financial system, banking and economic reforms, digitisation, banking regulation, corporate governance, child labour, malnutrition, social security, sustainability, globalization, liberalization, role of global financial institutions, micro, small and medium enterprises etc.

General Finance and Management: Here you may be asked about capital market, credit rating, risk management, non-performing assets, Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, role of organizations like SEBI, concepts of human resource development, leadership, motivation, corporate social responsibility, corporate governance, change management, ethics, communication, delegation, (de)centralisation of powers, primary and secondary markets etc.

Economics/Statistics: Both objective and subjective papers may consist of questions from the topics covered in a postgraduate course in the respective subject. Candidates should go through the syllabus and make chapter wise preparation.

Resources for Preparation

Like the Civil Services and many other examinations, RBI has been conducting the officers selection process since many years and thus enough preparation material and references are available for those joining this selection process. You may buy guides for different sections of the examination. For example guides are available for reasoning, quantitative aptitude and English language and writing skills. For finance, management, economic and social topics you'll need to refer to text books used in undergraduate and postgraduate courses. Some recommendation as to which books to buy has been made in the detailed notification for the examination.

At RBI website there is a link to question papers from previous years. There are many other websites which offer free access to some of their resources comprising of syllabus, analysis of past exam papers, preparation strategies, sample papers, mock tests etc. You need to curate such information from web resources to use them to your advantage. Few successful candidates have also shared their experiences on YouTube and other social media platforms. For quantitative aptitude and reasoning the more mock tests you undertake and more sample papers you solve, the better it will be for you.

Speed vs Accuracy

The test like the one we are talking about requires candidates to strictly manage their time during the examination. Large number of questions have to be solved in limited duration. As such every second is precious. You need to be efficient in navigating between the questions and clicking your answer. Spending too much time on a question is not recommended, at times there may be situations of doubt, but too much dilemma and self doubt will also eat away your precious time. You need to create balance between accuracy and speed. Many of the candidates think that they will review their answers, once they complete. But it doesn't happen in reality as there is not enough time.

Work on Typing Skills

In subjective papers candidates will have to type their answers. The young generation is quite used to type on their mobile phones but same may not be the case with typing on computer unless you have been doing it before. Check if you require to practice typing on computer to reach a reasonable speed. Be careful about using comma, full stop and other forms of punctuation. Those who will be answering questions in Hindi should know Hindi typing by using the prescribed keyboard layout. Your weakness in typing shouldn't come as a hindrance in your success.

Solving Subjective Part

In cases where you're required to answer subjective questions your thoughts should be organised. You should know how to begin, what to include in between and how to close. Give crisp, focused answers without deviating from the topic. To substantiate your point, include facts and data where you are sure. Avoid giving extreme opinions. Providing some new perspective and a fresh approach in answering questions will improve your score. It will be good if you attempt few sample subjective papers and get your answers reviewed by a suitable person to seek ideas for improvements. This process will also help you to know the aspects which need more work by you.

An opportunity to join the banking regulator as Grade B Officer can be a significant milestone in your journey. The compensation package includes good pay and benefits. Promotion opportunities are available. Some of these officers later get to work as Banking Ombudsman. With experience, you may get opportunities to work with global financial institutions, rating agencies, regulating bodies, banks etc. If you've academic interests it can be pursued by having assignments with National Institute of Securities Market, Centre for Advanced Financial Research and Learning, and College of Agricultural Banking established by RBI.

If a candidate wants to try for Indian Economic Service or Indian Statistical Service examination, some of the preparation for these may be common with that for RBI Grade B Officer examination.

Question: How do you think the pandemic has impacted people's mental health and what do you do to take care of our mental well-being in such a situation?

KANISHK KUMAR
PATPARGANJ, DELHI

Mental health is an integral aspect of human life which has been ignored and not given its deserved space in the public discourse for long. The Covid pandemic has brought this to the mainstream making it a topic of discussion.

To tackle mental health issues, first we need to understand its importance in our life and our overall health. Human life and health are multidimensional concepts. They are not dependent on just one factor but a lot of factors play a role in our wellbeing. The adage "Money cannot buy happiness" means only material pleasures are not enough for a meaningful life. Same is true in the case of health. Mere physical wellbeing devoid of mental and social wellbeing is not sufficient for a good life. Therefore, health should be viewed holistically giving equal weight to every factor.

Also, mental and emotional issues impact every other aspect of a person's life. If a person is not in a good mental space, his social, professional and personal life, studies and academics, relationships, everything is going to be affected. We also see that mental health issues are related to increasing crime rate which ultimately affects the entire society. A healthy population with the right values and frame of mind is the biggest asset for a nation and its development. Therefore this is a national issue and not just an issue concerning the health sector.

The pandemic has affected individuals immensely with people locked up in their houses for long period of time. Like Aristotle said "Man is by nature a social animal" which means being in a society and connected to other people is a fundamental of human nature and prerequisite for good health.

As per reports - cases of substance abuse, domestic violence, addiction to smartphones and gaming had increased during the pandemic especially among the youth.

Some steps that we can take and I personally took to stay motivated are:

- Adopt a healthy lifestyle- Let go of all the unhealthy habits harming you one by one. To start with, start eating healthy and doing recreational activities. Now that the lockdown is over make sure to go for an early morning run, exercise or meditation session.
- Make a schedule- Plan your day and make sure you stick to it. Practice a regular Sleep schedule that is sleeping and waking up at the same time every day.
- Log out - Take a break from social media, lately a collective conscience is building up about the ill effects of social media and the harm that exposure to screen for long hours is posing to our health. I have deactivated my social media handles myself and this is the point I stress the most to the readers, try to regulate your social media and smartphone usage and build the habit of reading instead.

Sri Lanka Announces External Debt Default amid Financial Crisis

Sri Lanka has suspended non-essential imports and external debt servicing (approximately USD 4 billion) citing financial crisis. Central Bank of Sri Lanka has said, it had become challenging and impossible to repay external debt, as the country tries to use its dwindling foreign exchange reserves to import essentials like fuel. Central Bank of Sri Lanka's governor, P. Nandalal Weerasinghe said the suspension of payment would be until the country came to an agreement with creditors and with the support of a loan programme with the International Monetary Fund (IMF). Tax cuts and COVID-19 pandemic badly hurt Sri Lanka's tourism-dependent economy and exposed the government's debt-fuelled spending. The island nation's reserves have slumped more than two-thirds in the past two years.
